Panelist

Greg Markell, President and CEO, Ridge Canada

Greg Markell is President and CEO of Ridge Canada, and is a leading insurance expert on the topic of cyber and privacy liability. He has advised public, private, and non-profit organizations regarding their risk transfer of organizational exposure to cyber-related losses. Greg began his career underwriting for a large national insurer, starting in property and casualty before quickly moving into executive and professional risk, with a focus on director's and officer's (D&O) insurance. He then moved on to join a national brokerage, focusing on specialty insurance products for financial services companies, including D&O and cyber liability. He left this firm as a partner in 2014 and joined a top 10 global broker, where he was a resource for his colleagues for D&O and the practice leader for cyber and privacy liability. Most recently, Greg became the President and CEO of Ridge Canada Cyber Solutions (RCCS). Ridge Canada is a managing general agent, focused on providing insurance solutions for clients' cyber and privacy needs. Greg will be providing wholesale solutions to retail brokers, along with consulting work regarding cyber and privacy insurance programs. Greg has been published in numerous insurance publications, and speaks frequently on the topic of cyber and privacy liability for public and private organizations. Greg has a Bachelor of Commerce with a minor in Economics from Queen's University
